Chilton—Miss Anna Lentz, 30 year old daughter of a wealthy farmer, was to be arraigned Tuesday on a charge of murder, following her alleged confession that she sent poisoned candy which resulted in the death of Mrs. Frank Schneider.

According to District Attorney Arps, Miss Lentz admitted buying poison, inserting it in a chocolate bar, intending to send it to Mrs. Henry Schneider, sister-in-law of the dead woman. She said, according to the district attorney, that she did not discover her mistake until she heard of the death of Mrs. Frank Schneider after eating the candy. She then visited the Schneider home and destroyed the package and wrapper, according to the confessed killer.

Prayed for J. M. Mind.

According to the district attorney, Miss Lentz gave as her reason for sending the poison that Mrs. Henry Schneider had spread reports that she had attended a dance with Frank Schneider and that Frank was responsible for her condition.

She said that this had preyed on her mind. Miss Lentz, according to the authorities, was known as a "little queen" in the neighborhood.

Mrs. Schneider died last Tuesday, after eating candy received through the mail. She was the mother of eight children.

Purchased Pulse.

Postal Inspector F. N. Niles, Fond du Lac, played prominent part in bringing about the arrest of Miss Lentz.

A druggist testified before the district attorney that Miss Lentz had bought poison a few days before the tragedy, and a grocer said he had sold her a chocolate bar. A mail man recalled having received a box from her home to mail, on the date of the poisoning.

Warrant is Served

Anne Lentz, charged with the death of Mrs. Frank Schneider, which followed several days ago after eating candy containing strichine which was sent to her by mail Tuesday, was served with a warrant charging first degree murder. The preliminary hearing will be held later in the week, H. F. Arps, district attorney, announced.

Russia and Turk Pals at Lausanne

for Associated Press]

Lausanne—Russia and Turkey, working together, are expected to make a strong pair at Lausanne and other delegations to the Near East conference are wondering what effect the combination will have.

English and French circles show a disposition to reject the demands forwarded by the Russian delegation, insisting that Russia be accorded more weight in the Dardanelles discussion but in all questions on the conference agenda. It is pointed out that Russia has signed a peace treaty with Turkey and that therefore there is no reasonable basis for her demand that she participate in the general deliberations to determine the terms of a settlement between Greece and Turkey on one hand and the allies on the other.

Nevertheless, whatever may be the decision of the conference on the stand taken by the Russians, it is apparent there will be no disposition

Miniature Exhibits For Products Show

(By ASSOCIATED PRESS)

Milwaukee—Exhibitors at the Wisconsin Products exposition, to be held Dec. 14 to 20, have been urged to make their displays operating ones rather than a mere display of the finished product. A miniature paper mill and aluminum factory are among the working exhibits already assured.

The exhibit of seed grain and other potatos in the agriculture section will be among the finest in the history of the state, according to A. L. Stone of the Wisconsin experiment station.

A lithograph, intended to convey the idea that the producing factors of the state are to join in a cooperative marketing venture, is being shown here as the official lithograph of the exposition.

Issue Circular on Livestock Crates

Farmers who use crates to ship livestock are advised to send to the College of Agriculture, University of Wisconsin, Madison, for the circular 153 on "Better Shipping Crates for Livestock." Poor crates cost stock men many thousands of dollars. Crate construction need no longer be a matter of guess work.

Wool Pool Agents To Meet December 2

The Farm Bureau wool marketing committee and officers and managers of wool pools will meet in the general offices of the American Farm Bureau federation, 58 East Washington street, Chicago, Saturday, Dec. 2. The meeting is called by Chairman J. F. Walker of the wool marketing committee to discuss the methods employed in marketing pools by the various state associations. All who are interested in better methods of marketing wool are urged to attend.

According to C. J. Fawcett, wool marketing director for the American Farm Bureau federation, in the season of 1921-18 pools marketed in excess of 22,000,000 pounds of wool at an average increase of 4½ cents per pound over the price obtainable of shearing time. The volume of wool handled by the same agencies in the present season is considerably less. While the final reports are not available for the season of 1922, Mr. Fawcett believes that an equally favorable showing on price will be made in the present season's operation.

BUREAU PLANNING CONGRESS STAND

Organization Concerned With Action on Muscle Shoals; Gray Speaks Here.

Members of the Rock County Farm Bureau executive committee were given a talk on the work of the American Farm Bureau Federation at a conference held in the court house Monday afternoon. Chester A. Gray, representative of the Washington Legislative Bureau, is in Wisconsin to confer with the Farm Bureau officers on what laws farmers want the Washington office to further during the present session of Congress.

The American Farm Bureau Federation maintains an office in Washington headed by Gray Silver, that has been instrumental in pushing to the front many pieces of agricultural legislation. The Bureau is now mainly concerned in pushing along on the Muscle Shoals project, whether the members of the Bureau, as represented by their officers desire the legislative committee to push the Ford tender or urge that the government continue the construction work and operate the great nitrate and power plants.

Good work is being accomplished with the J. H. S. "aggie" class in formation of clubs. It is expected that many of the students will be in the junior livestock clubs and the others on special work raising corn or grains.

Faculty Party Tonight.—Sixty-five members of the high school and vocational school faculty are expected to attend the faculty party at the new gymnasium, Tuesday night. It will be a Thanksgiving affair, with decorations and entertainment appropriate to the season.

AT THE APOLLO.—Miss Helen Kober, South Main street, was presented with the "Myers Award" at the Apollo Monday night.

The theater was jammed for the first show, mostly women, looking for this hat. That was but half of the attraction, however, the new picture, "Midsummer Madness," starring Mae Murray, being the other.

Lovish as ever all Mae Murray's pictures, this latest one has a story in which she is the "little-understood" dancer on Broadway—the street that gave her her name.

AN' THE MYERS.

"The Cowboy and the Lady" at its opening at the Myers, Monday night, proved to be an entertaining picture. It combines western romance with none of the crudeness of the "cowboy" pictures. Miles Minter and Tom Moore, both favorites, work well together, and as a result, with good direction and an interesting plot, an excellent picture is given.

Miles Minter is dressed by Moore and his eccentricities as a ranchman. Miss Murray seems more beautiful than ever and wears several beautiful gowns.

ON THANKSGIVING DAY.

It is to be hoped that no person in Janesville will be hungry on Thanksgiving day or go without a good dinner. While feasting is not all there is in this world we must remember that beside offering thanks for preservation of life and other things which had saved them from death, the surviving Pilgrims who were at Plymouth and there started the Thanksgiving day celebration had plenty to eat and of the best the fields and forest could afford. Whether he had turkey or other fowl is not generally stated in the historical writings but the Pilgrims did have some cranberry sauce and the turkey was in the woods for the hunting.

It has been 300 years since that first Thanksgiving giving and the wild turkey has almost disappeared except in the mountains of Virginia and the few secluded places in the Ozarks but we have tamed and reared him until he is much more an emblem of America than the vicious and preying eagle.

There is much to be thankful for this year. The optimist always finds something for thanks. But while there may be the usual calamity howlers here and there, the general condition of America is such as to demand thanks for life, liberty and the pursuit of happiness.

One of the most comforting ways of expressing thanks is to find some one who is away from home and give him or her the comfort of a dinner with pleasant surroundings. "I was a stranger and ye took me in," is a good sentiment on Thanksgiving Day.

THE "OPEN DOOR" IN TURKEY.

When we were settling the Boxer war indemnities and figuring out a way to help China, standing between plundering and loot, and greedy nations and the old Chinese empire, John Hay announced the "Open Door" policy. It was met with wry faces and sour looks but it stuck and eventually we returned to China all she paid in indemnities as the portion of the United States and kept her ports open to world trade.

The result has been free and open and equally based commerce with China. There were no favors and no rebates or special territorial privileges to favored nations. Much the same sort of amazement came from the delegates meeting at Lausanne when the American observer, sitting at the conference, called attention to the position of the United States on equal economic opportunity and against zones of special commercial influence. This is the Chinese proposal of John Hay for the "Open Door" which has come to be a settled and established policy of the United States and which was somewhat obscured at the Paris conference when the Versailles treaty was being formulated.

Carried to its ultimate application this policy presented to the conferees at Lausanne, would mean that there shall be no particular spots or territory cut from nations like Turkey with oil and other concessions as the prize to any nation. The demand for such special territorial privileges within nations has caused most of the trouble we have encountered in settling the war scores.

We read that the Lausanne delegates were amazed. It was as though some one, big and powerful, had arisen at a game of card sharps and announced that while he was not in the game, he was there to see that there was no cheating, and that the cards should be dealt from the top.

As a mere observer the United States has proved to be the most potent factor in the Lausanne conference and it was not surprising that the attitude of the United States should be given the support of the British home government as announced Monday.

The third party movement should be called the Tadpole party—all head.

The Janesville Caloric business is the hottest member of the new industrial life of the city.

Report for the month of October by the Ninth district Federal reserve bank at Minneapolis is the most optimistic of recent months concerning conditions in the northwest. About the only disturbing factor has been the shortage of cars for grain and livestock. Rye, barley and flax receipts at the Minneapolis and Duluth terminals have shown an increase and corn and wheat a falling off. Building activities, employment, volume of business—all show increases in October over September this year and October a year ago. We are interested deeply in the northwest as it affects all sections, notably Wisconsin which is in part in the Ninth Federal reserve district.

It was an interesting declaration made by a Swedish speaker at the World conference against alcoholism at Toronto last week, when it was said that the Scandinavian countries are the thin edge of the prohibition wedge which is destined to split the liquor interests of Europe. Iceland and Finland are bone dry and Norway permits no alcohol of exceeding 14 per cent. The women of these countries are the hope of prohibition since they have voted overwhelmingly against liquor. By strong restrictive measures, Belgium has reduced the per capita consumption of liquor more than one half. Women have a representative in the British parliament who after making a fight of 20 years for prohibition was elected to his seat from the wet city of Dundee, Scotland. THE STORM.

Winter's hammering at the door, banging at the window pane, seeking to get in at us, but it howls and beats in vain;

Here the logs upon the hearth blaze and chuckle gleefully.

It's a stormy night outside, but we're safe as safe can be.

Cut off dooms the tree tops moan and a dirge the wires sing.

Now and then a shutter bangs like a bruised and beaten thing.

But indoors the children play all unmindful of the storm.

Here we have no care to dread, here are happy hearts and warm.

So before the fire I sit, thinking as the storm goes by.

Filled with bitterness the world, but contented here am I.

Now the North wind howls along, and the snow is drifting deep,

But serene the house remains by the blazing fire. I keep.

So our faith is like the fire glowing brightly in the grate.

Keeping warm the heart inside when descend the storms of fate.

Bitterly the winds may blow 'round the place where we abide,

But our faith shall keep us safe till the tempest shall subside.

But I can do this for the reason that

There are some business men in my town

That make the Standard Oil company

Look almost like a loser.

I refer to the roasted chestnut dealers,

I have tried for some years to get

More than a nickel's worth of chestnuts

For a quarter but have always failed.

The little tin measure that holds

A nickel's worth is mischievous.

In a thimble, it seems to me.

I asked one of these business men

Why I got so few for 25 cents.

And he said, smirkingly,

A good reason, and incontrovertible.

Who's Who Today

JAMES RAMSAY MACDONALD.

James Ramsay MacDonald, announced pacifist and opponent of the world war, now looms as a formidable figure in British politics. He sprung out of the surprises of the recent election by winning his seat in parliament from his district.

Following his election he was made chairman of the labor party. It is the second time he has held that position and his "left" may mean the premiership.

MacDonald is noted for his parliamentary skill, his gifts as a speaker, and his extensive knowledge of foreign affairs. He is a strong socialist as well as an anti-imperialist. His career has been stormy. He was rejected by a large majority at Leicester in 1918 owing to his anti-war attitude and again badly defeated in 1921. The voting was very close at the recent election and MacDonald won over Clynes, although Lloyd George campaigned against him.

The new labor leader was born at Loshiemouth in 1866. He was educated at a board school and later married the daughter of the late Dr. Gladstone. He has two sons and three daughters.

It is reported that Silas Minshall of Durian secured the first deer of the season. While a little out of the regular routine usually employed by hunters, the result was satisfactory.

It seems Silas was out looking up the deer runways and while locating a favorable station he was attacked by a large stag. Owing to the fact that Silas was wearing a large amount of red flannel, the stag became enraged and chased Silas up a tree. The wild scramble to get out of the way, coupled with Silas' enormous weight, caused a limb of the tree to break. Silas may be returned to camp with his trophy and was voted the best hunter in the crowd.—Delavan Republican.

THE FIRST THREE YEARS

Grampy, with his chronic bronchitis or winter cough, was a regular visitor and as wrong in his conventional notions of the cause of the trouble and the ways of health as a testimonial writer. It took three years, mostly winters, of eloquence and logic, not to save bagging, by the doctor to import the first rudiments of a common sense hygiene. Grampy finally came to believe that clothing is something to be worn for comfort, winter or summer, and not the armor against "taking cold," as he called it, after an elaborate consideration of all the terrible maladies that underlie that fear.

It is there anything in this idea of "live and learn" a man of 74 ought to begin to have glimmerings of intelligence, and yet so few of us live to learn that few of us learn to live comfortably. Grampy died peacefully, and the world was the poorer for his loss.

SYNOPSIS OF PRECEDING CHAPTERS: Gladys is so shy and self-conscious that it is almost agony for her to meet new people or go into a room where there are strangers. She lives, as there "poor relation," with her Uncle Peter and his wife, and their daughter, the cousin Gladys, who is the only girl of the little town of Jersey City. Her own father, Jim, lives there too—affectionate, impractical, unrelinquished, looked-down-on by his prosperous brother, Morton. As usual, she meets Morton Newberry, a shy, studious boy, who seems attracted to her.

A CONFIDENTIAL DIARY
Chapter 8

Dora did see Morton Newberry after a time, of course. She shared all the social activities and pleasures of the family, as far as her shy temperament would let her.

But for three quarters of an hour she stayed behind in the kitchen until that place was as shiningly clean as Aunt Maude desired, and until the dining room table was set for the next morning's breakfast. Then she ran up to her room to comb her hair into order again—not for its impressiveness, and in her hurry, making a very unbecoming arrangement of it.

Then she went down to the parlor to find Gladys playing the piano, Jesse standing by her singing, and Morton standing a little way off, smoking a cigar and looking as though he wished he could sing too. "You've got a beautiful voice," Jesse was complimenting Gladys. "Now, let's try this new one. Just once I'll let it in yesterday."

Gladys began to play it. She had a rich voice which made up in volume what it lacked in fineness of quality. Added from the usual singing exercises at school, it was trained solely by imitating the wandeille artists, who played now and then at the one small theatre. This meant that she forced a natural contracto to high soprano, with somewhat disastrous results. Jesse, impressed by sound and strength, really thought it remarkable.

Gladys was particularly good at "coot songs." She reached the chorus:

"Oh, how I love you, ba-hab!" and rolled her great eyes at Jesse with telling effect. When Jesse joined in the song, one could feel the room shake a little.

"Gosh, that's great isn't it?" was as far as a compliment as poor Morton could get.

But it was quite all right, Gladys said, "I'm glad you like it."

Even when she was 12, Dora had painted in letters at the beginning of the blank pages, "Thoughts on Loneliness." Later, as she grew older and read more, she changed this to "The Philosophy of Loneliness."

The first page of the crudie letters, the things she first wrote were, of course, ridiculous—but infinitely pathetic as the attempt of a child to express itself.

That night she began:

"I have missed another chance. I am no good at anything at all. I am convinced of that. I have not what novelists call personality. This evening I might have made a hit. I like me enough for him to take notice again—but I can't imagine tied while G. was nice to J. and rude to him. I am always missing chances. Some day they will cease to come."

BEAUTY CHATS

THE EGG AS BEAUTIFIER

Even when eggs are expensive they are cheap as a shampoo. It is impossible to overestimate their value in making the hair healthier and more beautiful. The yolk of the egg contains iron and sulphur, both natural foods for the scalp; the white is a mild alkali which mingles with the oils excreted from the pores of the scalp forming a mixture something like soap. It is this chemical action which makes the hair wash so much more easily as soon as you begin to use soap and water.

Some people advocate mixing a beaten egg with an ounce of winter perfume. I think it is much better to use the well-beaten egg by itself.

If the hair is very long and thick you might need two eggs, but as it is only necessary to cover the scalp and not all the hair, I think that one will do.

Beat up the egg thoroughly and run it well into the scalp with the tips of the fingers. The rubbing is essential as it works the egg thoroughly over the surface of the skin.

Now let the egg sit for 15 minutes or more. If it absorbs all the dandruff and dirt and sticky oil which is collected on the scalp, and when it is washed off it all comes together after one or two soapings. In any case, rub the head should be scraped from three to five times, but

CAROL SINGING IN STREETS POPULAR IN MANY TOWNS

The singing of Christmas carols in the streets by children's choirs becomes more popular each year, because it arouses community spirit, stimulates musical interest, reviews Christmas sentiment. The movement has of these carols such as "O Little Town of Bethlehem," "Silent Night," "It Came Upon a Midnight Clear," "Mark, the Herald Angel Sing," "Joy to the World."

The National Bureau for the Advancement of Music, 105 W. 40th St., New York City, will send free samples of carol books to any community leaders on request. The Bureau will also supply free one set of patterns for the same costumes. These costumes may be made of inexpensive cotton materials and add much to the picturesqueness of the carol singing.

The custom of placing lighted candles in the windows of homes as signals that those within wish the callers to stop and enter has been frowned upon by insurance companies as being fire hazard, but this danger can be avoided by seeing that window draperies are removed to a safe distance. It is worth while to practice so beautiful a custom when only a little care will prevent any disastrous results.

In many cities collections are taken by the choirs and the money thus raised given to charity.

CHRISTMAS PROGRAM MATERIAL

The committee editor has compiled a list of some of the best available material in the line of Christmas plays, programs, contests, curl booklets, etc., and will send a copy to any teacher, church or community worker on receipt of a request accompanied by a stamped envelope. The list gives prices of material and addresses of publishers. It also includes books and magazines which may be found in most public libraries and friend material available from the University Extension Department.

Either public school or Sunday school groups are probably the most practical in smaller cities and villages. Such groups may learn and practice the carols in the school room from day to day or at a time of the weekly program on Sunday School. The denominational Christmas programs usually call for the singing of one or more well known Christmas carols. All hymn books contain some

He is in the saloon every day. I have tried to change him, but he doesn't care. I wish I were able to go away from my friends and wife so that I could get a divorce. I want to go back and raise a family but I am poor and must live with myself for my parents are not able to advise me.

Don't feel that divorce in your case is a disgrace. It would be a greater disgrace for you to live with such a husband. Don't think for a minute that a man who would beat you is your husband. His wife would change permanently if you went back. Probably in a few weeks he would be just as bad or worse than he was before.

By all means get yourself out if it will make you happy to do so, go somewhere where you can make new friends. I think you are wrong, however, in feeling that you cannot face your friends. You have done nothing wrong and therefore a feeling of shame is out of place. Hold up your head and know in your own mind that you are right. Your self-respect will gain the respect of others and none of your friends will question your divorce.

Your experience has been most cruel and forced me quickly as you can. Dear Mrs. Thompson: I get fever blisters in my mouth. What can I do for this?

Three times a day drink a cup of hot water with one-third of a teaspoon of bicarbonate of soda in it. If this does not relieve your disorder consult a physician. Probably you have too much acidity and the soda is all you need.

It would be foolish for either of us to give up the young man. Be patient and let him settle your problem. Take you man himself and no one else can make a choice. Each should go on as she has been doing and regard him as a friend.

NEWARK FIRST IN ANTI-TUBER. FIGHT

Hope to Have Hundred Per Cent in Battle Against Bovine Disease.

Desiring to be the first township having the required percentage of signers, canvassers are out Tuesday in Newark township for signatures to the petition for the county-wide bovine tuberculosis eradication campaign in Rock county. It is hoped to secure at least 75 percent of the cattle in the county to sign the petition, to test every herd in the country by Jan. 1, 1923.

The second week in December will see the Rock county campaign for clean herds and better cattle well underway, with meetings scheduled in various townships at which the motion picture, "Out of the Shadows," will be shown and Dr. Arthur J. Kilkilian will explain the value of area testing.

There were 40 Newark residents attending the meeting Monday night at which time the canvassers and others were called together for a conference. Dr. Kilkilian, Wisconsin Livestock commissioner and Lewis C. French, spoke at the meeting.

Explains Testing

After explaining the history of bovine tuberculosis, the spread from infected cattle and dangers of the disease, they demonstrated the methods of the area test put on jointly by the state and federal departments of agriculture when 51 percent or more of the cattle owners petition the state department.

"When a cow is a known reactor, the animal ceases to have any value other than what it would bring on the meat block," declared Dr. Kilkilian. "They have practically no value as a dairy breeding or animal." Consequently, this idea of testing cattle is all wrong. They bring just exactly their true value as meat and in addition a fair indemnity paid for further testing."

The average of reactors in Wisconsin is about four percent. However, I am convinced it is good business for Rock county to get in early for the test for the reactors will probably run some higher in many of the southern Wisconsin counties. Once clean the county will be in a position to command good business in the sale of cattle and increased business on swine. You can make Rock the best known county in the United States for clean and good livestock.

Milton Is Active

Milton township is also well advanced in having the petition signed and it is expected that both these townships in starting the county campaign will procure more than 75 percent of the names required to carry their respective districts.

The canvassers named for the township by school districts: Northark was Mrs. Edith; Gilbert, John Schilder; Harry Wieland; J. L. Gary; No. 1 Jamie Engone; William Bartlett; Carl Cais; Robert Halle; Christ Anderson; Vern Care; Frank Hazelton; Roy Cole; Frank Merlet; Carl Klingberg; Lee Severon and Dell Merlet. They have divided up the townships and arranged a systematic schedule to work to canvass every farm with the petitions.

Name Officials for Milton-Miner Game Here Turkey Day

Copyright 1920, by Geo. McManus

PREPARE FOR BIG CROWD IN BIGGEST GAME OF THE YEAR

Officials to handle the Wisconsin School of Mines-Milton college football game at the fair grounds here Thanksgiving afternoon were named Tuesday morning by Oscar N. Nelson, manager of the local Chamber of Commerce.

Victor E. Hommering, well known Janesville official and former star athlete at the University of Wisconsin, will be the chief referee. referee Hommering was head arbiter at the recent big grid contest at Beloit between Lawrence and Beloit colleges.

"Doe" Woodworth Umpire.

Dr. L. J. (Charlie) Woodworth has been picked to hold down the other field job, that of umpire. "Doe" was formerly a crack lineman on Marquette university and was an under-coach at the Milwaukee school.

A. C. Welsh, member of the Marine team at Quantico during the recent war and former Janesville high school player, will be linesman. Paul Richards will hold the time-piece.

Tickets Going Good.

With every indication pointing to the biggest crowd of the year packing the sidelines, tickets are reported to be going good. The time of the game—2:30 p. m.—will permit fans to get their Thanksgiving dinners directed by the hour of starting. It is the first Turkey day game here in years.

More than 300 tickets were given to Janesville high school students Monday for sale around town. A contest has been instituted, each boy or girl selling 10 tickets being promised one free ticket.

Special rates for high and grade school children have been arranged. High school pupils will be permitted to see the game for 50 cents. Grade school scholars will be charged 25 cents. The regular price is 75 cents.

MILTON SECOND FAIR,

WITH MINER FORMATIONS

Milton — The second, using School of Mines formations, proved an ill match for Milton's regulars in their practice scrimmage Monday afternoon. Pinochio began a half hour earlier than usual and lasted until dark. Chaydey's broken field running was a feature of the varsity's attack. Once the former Union high school athlete scored a touchdown from the kickoff, he received near his own 30-yard line. On the next kickoff he nearly captured his feet, but was unable to advance a few yards from the touchback goal.

Since the game Thursday afternoon will interfere with noon dinner for his athletes, Coach Crandall announced Monday that a Thanksgiving feast, with turkey and all the other requisites, will be served the entire squad Thursday evening at the Grand hotel.

A photograph of the squad will be taken prior to the game.

MINERS WILL ARRIVE HERE THURSDAY MORNING

Battlefield — The last day of hard training for the Wisconsin School of Mines was to take place Tuesday. Light practice was planned for Wednesday afternoon.

The Miners will entrain from here Thursday morning over the Chicago, Milwaukee & St. Paul. They will arrive in Janesville at 9:30 a. m.

The Badger school expects to be accompanied by a goodly sized contingent of players.

In practice Monday, Milton plays were used by the seconds against the regulars. A nip and tuck battle resulted.

65 Candidates to Try for Blue Basket Squad

Sixty-five candidates will be for the Janesville high school basketball team this year. Regular practice is to start next week.

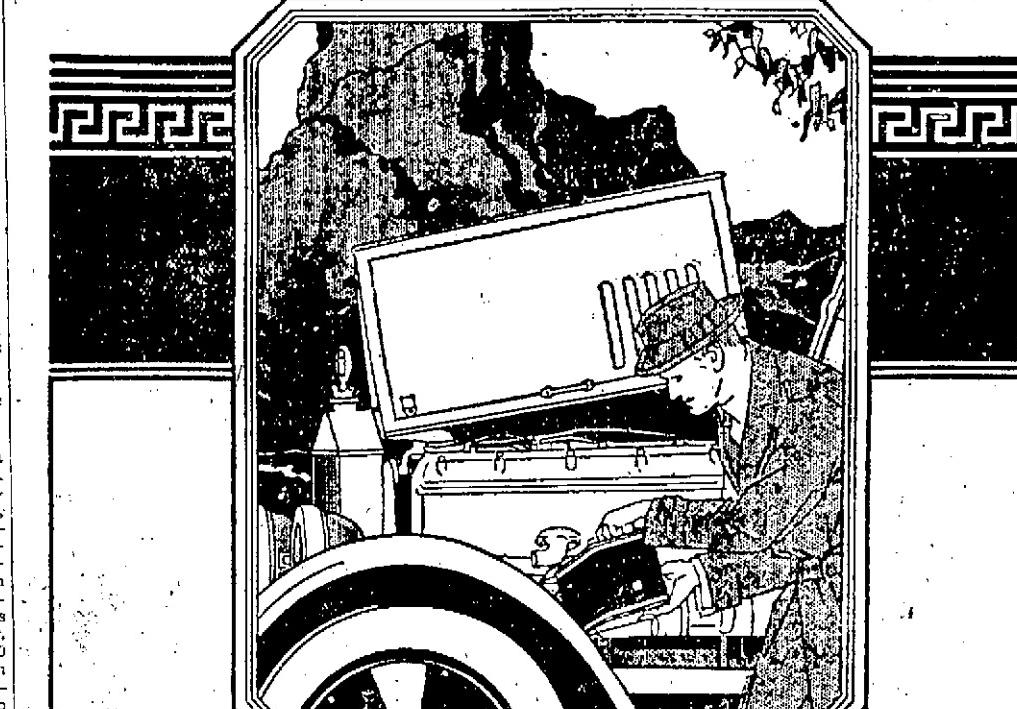

Class basketball will be postponed this season until the end of the year when the four divisions may compete if they wish. The coaches feel that a boy should not dive right into a full game of basketball at tournament pace so early in the season without first having a period of thorough training.

It is the purpose this year to have the University of Wisconsin ask that the two institutions arrange their football schedules so that they may meet on the gridiron next year. Thomas Jones, athletic director, announced Tuesday, Coach Jones replied the Badgers would be glad to consider the proposed contest.

Schedule of the western conference for the 1922 season is to be arranged at Chicago Saturday. The athletic department said Wisconsin will play Indiana at Bloomington, Michigan and Minnesota at Madison, either Illinois or Iowa on their home gridiron, and Chicago at Chicago. Basketball, track and minor sports will also be booked.

Among other things, the directors will attempt to put baseball on a better basis, through closer organizations of the coaches designed to facilitate handling of problems involving appointment of officials and playing off of postponed games.

The schedule of the teams will probably be ready next week.

Mandates Do Not Give Special Privileges, Europe Is Reminded.

By DAVID LAWRENCE
Copyright 1922 by Janesville Daily Gazette.

Washington — Responsibility and risks, mandates and territorial security, equality of commercial opportunity and the policy of the United States in the Near East were outlined Monday by one of the spokesmen of the administration in a way that would have done the European powers gathered at Lausanne a great deal of good to hear.

It all developed from the constant now of cable dispatches from Europe criticizing the American government for instructing Ambassador Child of Italy to get up in open meeting and declare American desires in the Near East. The dispatches reflected feelings of sentiment that America should be unwilling to take any risks in policing Europe or in supervising the so-called mandated regions and yet should want an equal share of commercial opportunities.

Naturally the responsible authorities here couldn't be quoted as they were dealing with anonymous comment received through the press, but there is no doubt here that the European correspondents reflected accurately the viewpoint of the diplomats abroad.

Philippines Is European Mind.

The fallacies it was explained by the spokesman here of the government seem to exist in the European mind. One is that because the United States didn't accept a mandate in Armenia she was not entitled to any of the advantages which other powers will enjoy in the mandated regions. This prompted the reply here that perhaps the European governments have forgotten the original idea of a mandate. It was to be a trusteeship. Possibly if the United States hadn't come into the war at the crucial moment the territories would today be German provinces. The allies disclaimed any idea of selfishness or annexation in pursuing the war and it was the suggestion of the American peace commission that the territories taken from Germany should belong jointly to the victors but that particular nations should be selected to act as trustees and administer those lands under a charter granted by all and periodically supervised.

We Have Rights

The United States was and is a charter member of the group of victors and any nation which holds a mandate is merely a trustee. One of the chief arguments in favor of the mandate system was that it would preserve equality and prevent discrimination. The United States government, however, is merely clinging to the powers that America simply wants equality. The question of whether America has refused to undertake any responsibility by declining a mandate is not pertinent because it was specifically provided that mandates were not to be compulsory. American public opinion didn't support the acceptance of the only mandate offered America, namely

EAST KOSHKONONG

East Koskoshonong — Mr. John Ferguson, Fort Atkinson, spent the week end on the Grogan farm — F. Edward, Fort Atkinson, was a caller Saturday at the R. J. Grogan farm. J. Powers, Fort Atkinson, was a Sunday caller on William Grogan. Mr. and Mrs. William Swimmer spent Sunday in Milton with Mr. and Mrs. H. Burns. W. Erdman is visiting his sister, Mrs. A. Crabtree, near Freeport, Ill., for a few days. T. Collins, Lima, called on A. Bearman Saturday. Mrs. Paul Banding is on the sick list. Otto Arndt Milton was a caller Saturday. Mrs. S. C. Schmidt, Hibron, was a guest of his daughter, Miss B. Coats, Sunday. Mrs. H. Lompeke and son were in Fort Atkinson Saturday.

that of Armenia, but the opinion of other countries has similarly been ranged against the taking of other mandates, too.

No Abolition

The other fallacy which has given rise to criticism of America in the Lausanne conference on Near Eastern affairs has been the idea that the United States absolved herself from all responsibilities in Europe and hence was not entitled to equal consideration or to play another role in the continent which had all the better risk of administering a mandate was entitled to special privileges. That is exactly opposite to what the Wilson administration and secretaries of state preceding Mr. Hughes have understood to be the object of mandates. As for undertaking responsibilities, the department of state feels that it is merely following a century of precedents in deciding to be a party to boundary disputes in Europe. America under Wilson and Wilson's administration refused to be a party to the negotiations of a peace treaty with Turkey because war had not been declared by the Ottoman empire and because it was felt boundary lines was a strictly European matter.

The protection of American rights, however, under historic treaties before the war has not been forfeited through that act and the European governments will find themselves much mistaken if they believe that America did not take part in the solving of Europe that it will waive any of the rights which it possessed before the European war or which it has derived as a result of the greatest responsibility ever taken by the American nation—assistance in 1917 and 1918 in making possible a triumph instead of possible defeat.

The formula of American co-operation with Europe since the war may be a matter of controversy but the rights possessed by virtue of the armistice and American aid to the allies will not be yielded in the meantime.

Discovery by Captain See of the cause of magnetism, which was also announced in the lecture, led to the finding of a direct connection between magnetism and gravity.

"Floater," Found Insane, Is Sent to State Hospital

Found to be suffering from insanity, Richard Lester, also known as Robert J. Links, 64, a "floater," was committed to the state hospital at Menard, Ill., Saturday morning.

Lester was detained by the police Sunday and complained by a cousin living near he had forced his entrance into her home several times.

In the examination conducted by Dr. Charles Sutherland and Dr. R. C. Hartman, it was found the patient was unable to talk coherently, although apparently in the best of health physically. Doctors declared it their belief that he is growing worse and that he is apt to do violence to himself.

He is alleged to have threatened a man with a knife in a restaurant 19 years ago.

Lester was born in New York and was a farmer and trapper. He came here a few days ago from Illinois but has no known place of residence, being classed by the police as a "floater." His mother is said to be living in Mukwonago.

"It is interesting to note," said Mr.

Muggleton, "that the people of the south have never been as prosperous as they are today, since Civil war times.

It is costing between 11 and 12 cents to produce cotton and the growers recyling around 23."

Asked regarding the effect the cotton picking machine will have on cotton prices, Mr. Muggleton predicted that it would never be a complete success because the machine cannot be hummed and to a sufficient degree when it will pick often the open cotton bolls, and leave the partially opened bolls to ripen.

The Rock River Cotton Company was established in 1888 and capitalized in 1907 at $250,000. It is a closed corporation. Fred Howe, president, Charles Muggleton, vice president and party for Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Shaxer
